LIVING UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF NEGATIVITY

Living Under the Influence

You've always heard that a negative attitude can have a profound effect on your life. Did you know that it can also dramatically impact your business as well?

To get you into the right frame of thought, I want to give you a scenario to introduce the concept of negativity using an example that relates to alcohol and being intoxicated.

Imagine for a moment a very good family man, who is a loving husband and caring father. It's a Friday evening and after a long week he's going for a night out with his friends.

He kisses his wife and kids and then heads for the bar to meet up with his friends. One drink turns to two and then four and continues until he's ready to come home. He gets into his car, completely intoxicated. He begins to drive.

He doesn't get too far before he's pulled over by the police. He's asked to step out of the car and asked to perform the usual checks. He's asked to touch his nose but he can't even find his nose.

He's asked to walk in a straight line and can't do that either. He's asked to take the breathalyzer test and he's actually so drunk he doesn't know who he is or what he's doing.

Thankfully this man was pulled over by the police because there could have been another outcome.

Somebody could have been killed, he could have been killed. Now, he is not a bad man, he is a good family man but he got intoxicated.

Now, I want to ask you this question.

Are you intoxicated? No, I'm not talking about alcohol intoxication...I'm talking about your thoughts and your negativity level. Are you intoxicated with negative thoughts?

Negativity can cause the similar effects as being drunk. You'll be off balance and unable to find the nose on your face.

Living Under the Influence

With alcohol, you can have some in moderation and excessive alcohol leads to intoxication.

The interesting thing about the negative thought level is that it starts with what you see. Then as you see more and more negative things, you start to have excessive negative thoughts. Like driving under the influence of alcohol, you could also be living under the influence of negativity. I like to call this LUI.

Living like this will eventually have a devastating effect.

I've had experiences in my life where I've had a very high negative thought level. I was living under the influence of negative thoughts, negative feelings and negative emotions.

I was constantly thinking about all of the negative things that were happening and that had happened in the past. I was even thinking about the negative things that might happen tomorrow or the next day.

LIVING UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF NEGATIVITY

Get It In Check

I had to take control of the situation and get my negativity in check. How do you get this in check?

There are a lot of different things that contribute to negative thought. When you allow yourself to become overwhelmed with things that happened in the past that didn't work and things that may or may not work out in the future, it can paralyze you with negativity.

There are also the voices of those people around you, who influence and impact you in a negative way.

To combat negative thought, you can develop a mental framework. When it comes to doing something, you really have two choices.

You can either do something or do nothing. This is your primary decision. If you decide to do something just do. For instance, if you want to win something, just decide to win and go for it. You may or may not win, but the act itself of deciding to do something to win is positive and helps combat negative thought.

If you're not going to make the decision to change your life by doing something, then stop complaining about it.

Why complain about things that you continue to allow in your life?

A mentor told me a long time ago, you never change what you're unwilling to confront. If you do not like where you are or what is happening in your life, then do something about it. If you decide to do nothing then nothing will change but stop complaining about it.

You may not have all the answers but don't just sit there and wait for them to come either. You need to start moving and you can make adjustments along the way. No matter what, there are really only three things that can happen.

1. Your life will get better based on your actions.
2. It will get worse based on your actions.
3. It will stay the same.

The degree to which it gets better or worse will depend on whether or not you allow yourself to become overwhelmed. If you start thinking negatively and focusing on how bad things can get, either things will stay the same, but more than likely they'll get worse based on your negative actions.

Focus on how good things can become.

Regardless of what end of the spectrum you end up on, if you reduce it down to the basics, one of three things is going to happen. Things will get better, get worse or stay the same. It's up to you to decide what you want to happen.

It's quite common to try to predict what is going to happen based on what has already happened in your life and this can be a problem.

It's a bigger problem if you have negative predictions because when you have negative predictions you expect to fail and therefore you do nothing.

For the most part there is always time to proactively do things and to change and progress your life. Based on your actions, things are going to get better, get worse or stay the same.

LIVING UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF NEGATIVITY

You should always choose the actions that you feel are going to produce a better result and there is one simple question that you can ask yourself.

This question can be asked regardless of where you are or what you're doing. Whether you're looking to improve yourself personally or you're looking to improve your business. Ask yourself:

"How is that working for you?"

This question will allow you to evaluate two things. What it is that you're doing and the results that you're getting?

This helps you make sure you don't get caught up in counterproductive persistence. Sometimes you can persist at doing things that are not working and this question will help you to see that.

By asking this question you're able to evaluate the process that you use to try to get the results that you're looking for. If it is not working, you can look at doing something else or doing things differently

The question you need to answer is whether things are getting better, getting worse or staying the same. Are you doing something or nothing and how is it working for you?

To wrap up this report, let me just remind you of what happens when you live under the influence of negativity and what happens when you have excessive negativity in your life.

You become completely disorientated and you have an altered reality. You start to lose touch with what your real potential is. You do not perform at genius levels.

When you live like this, you constantly focus on the bad and forget to see the good in your life and in your situation. You tend to do nothing because you assume that nothing good will come of your actions. Remember, negative thoughts bring negative actions. The sooner you recognize this, the sooner you can turn those negative thoughts into positive actions.
